RIDGELAND OFFERS A VARIETY OF DINING EXPERIENCES

RIDGELAND, Miss. -- There's something delicious about Ridgeland. With some of the most unique restaurants in the South, there's always a tempting treat to tantalize anyone's tastebuds. Just passing through and want to stop for a quick lunch? You can find that and more and be back on your way. But trust us, you'll want to linger a little longer and discover a special place for dinner.

While some of America's favorite restaurants can be found in Ridgeland, there are also a host of locally-owned restaurants serving a variety of offerings. From upscale to down-home, there's something for every occasion. Savor Southern favorites fried catfish and hushpuppies at Cock of the Walk, located on the beautiful Ross Barnett Reservoir. Try a completely different seafood experience at Chefs John Folse and Rick Tramonto's Seafood R'evolution.

No need to travel the world when you can get a taste of Mexico, France, Italy, Japan, Vietnam, China and the Mediterranean at restaurants in Ridgeland. Visitors can also find "comfort food" cooking at Primos Café, as well as local favorites like Mint the Restaurant and Signa's Grille that give an entirely different approach to Southern favorites.

From gourmet burgers at Burgers and Blues to pizza partnered with classic rock 'n roll at Soulshine Pizza, dining becomes entertainment in Ridgeland. Many of the chefs pride themselves on sourcing foods locally while celebrating the bounty found in this area and the flavors that make the region special.

Don't miss out on our specialty treats like Ciara's fresh baked goodies and cupcakes with sky-high frosting at Gigi's Cupcakes. There's always plenty of mouth-watering experiences to be found in Ridgeland.
